Dear Mr. Mitchell:

I just wanted to send you a note regarding our use of your excellent enzyme product for odor control. We were the Health and Safety consultants for a project that entailed the excavation of soils which contained extremely high levels of hydrogen sulfide. During excavation, the release of foul-smelling hydrogen sulfide created a furor in nearby neighborhoods. One town was ready to close its schools because the odor was so bad. The mayor of the town lived downwind, ¼ mile away. I think you get the picture.

One of the engineers on-site had heard of your product, and suggested we call you. Although the engineer mistakenly thought your Eco-Care 1002-250 was a perfume or masking agent, we were ready to try anything.

The background readings on several of our air monitors showed 10 to 15 ppm, with peaks of up to 45 ppm. As your product was being applied, I watched the readout drop to 4 ppm! As long as the enzyme was applied, we held our background levels to 4 ppm or less. The mayor was happy, the school board was happy, and most importantly, our client was happy. Naturally, we're ecstatic, and we plan on having a good supply of Eco-Care available for every project in which nasty odors may be generated.

Very truly yours,
